Sky Trains Being Used By Yanks To Pour Food Into Berlin Sector

BERLIN, June 28—Fifty United States Air Force C-47 cargo planes landed 125 tons of food in Berlin today, slightly easing the Soviet "food blockade" aimed at driving out the Western Allies.

The arrival by barge of 825 tons of flour for the western sections of the former German capital further improved the situation.

Leon Steck, U.S. military government food chief in Berlin, emphasized, however, that the improvement is strictly temporary.

He pointed out that the daily food requirements of the approximately 2,000,000 Germans who live in the three western sectors total 2,000 tons of food daily. A total of 55 of the huge planes are scheduled to make the Berlin run twice today bringing in a total of 250 tons.

AIR FORCE officials said the same schedule will be followed tomorrow, and that a meeting will be held today to plan a further increase.

Steck revealed that another 2,600 tons of flour are enroute by barge in addition to the 825 tons which arrived today.

He said the amount, if it reaches Berlin, will extend by four days in the western sector's food supply—now under 60 days.

He added that the Russians have not banned completely barge traffic from the western zones to Berlin, but merely have imposed new, strict documentary controls whose exact effect is not yet clear.

German police and the Soviet controlled ADN News Agency reported that four persons were seriously and three slightly injured this morning in a riot at the currency exchange station at the Karlshorst racetrack.

The reports said a crowd of 5,000 which gathered to exchange Western Deutschmarks for Soviet eastern marks smashed through the barriers before the station opened.

THREE squadrons of four-engine C-54 skymasters—about 39 planes—have been dispatched by Washington headquarters of the Air Force to join the air bridge to Berlin. The planes will come from the Alaskan, Caribbean and tactical air commands.

In addition, a reported 100 British planes reportedly are under orders to fly to the British zone of Germany to participate in the sky train. The French also fly supplies to the four-power city.

Even these massive air efforts can not match the quantities of supplies ordinarily moved by blockaded trains and trucks and ration measures have been started.

Tentative plans call for aerial food shipments to the 2,500,000 Germans in the western zones to total 175 tons a day.

Rail shipments before the Russians stopped freight trains amounted to 2,000 tons a day. (Continued on Page Two)

6th Degree Temblor Hits Honshu

Big Tidal Wave Also Reported

TOKYO, June 28—A violent earthquake and fires in three provinces of Western Japan late today left thousands dead, injured or homeless.

Unconfirmed Japanese reports from Nagoya, south of the center of the disaster area, estimated that 30,000 persons were killed, injured or missing.

An Osaka report of a tidal wave was still unconfirmed at midnight, seven hours after the quake struck.

The tidal wave report, broadcast by the Osaka radio, said the oceanic upheaval smashed at the mountainous coast on the Sea of Japan four hours after the quake rocked the region.

Hardest hit by the disaster was Fukui, a city with a population of 52,000 on the western coast of Honshu island.

GREAT FIRES were still raging in Fukui at midnight and communications with the city were broken, making it impossible to obtain details on the casualties and damage.

Also reeling under the impact of the temblor was the town of Daishoji, but midnight reports indicated the losses there while severe, were not so great as first reported.

The Tokyo meteorological observatory classified the quake as of the sixth degree—the same intensity as the 1923 Tokyo-Yokohama quake which took a toll of 143,000 lives.

However, it was pointed out that today's quake struck a far less densely populated area.

American patrols carrying food and medicines were trying to reach Fukui from Maizuru and Kanazawa. Thirty-four Japanese doctors were trying to reach the stricken city from Niigata.

The Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri estimated at least 30,000 persons were killed, injured or homeless in the city of Fukui alone in the disaster which was being compared to the catastrophic quake and fire of 1923.

Because of broken communications, details were not immediately available regarding the oceanic upheaval that surged up the coast of West Central Japan following the quake. (Continued on Page Two)

Selling Crackers Brings Local Man Fine In Court

Evidence that Pickaway County authorities intend to stamp out all violations of law against possessing or selling fireworks was brought to light Monday when George Crum of 130 East Water street was fined $25 and costs.

Complaint against Crum's possession of fireworks for retail sale was signed by James C. Thomas, agent for the state department of industrial relations.

Crum was arrested Saturday by Sheriff Charles Radcliff. The county official said there would be no exceptions to the law out of those set forth by the ruling which permits the use and sale of caps, cap pistols and toy canes.

Magistrate Oscar Root of Circleville Township said Crum paid the fine and costs and was released. Root declared: "Let this be a warning to all persons in this county who intend to use or sell fireworks in celebration of Independence Day."

IN HIS BUSIEST weekend since coming into office, Root also fined Carl Davenport of Circleville $25 and costs for possession of fireworks. (Continued on Page Two)

WASHINGTON, June 28—With temperatures soaring throughout the land, the Commerce department reported today that the 1947 output of mittens and gloves totaled 324 million pairs—about the same as in 1946.

Ireland, Italy Sign First Of 16 ERP Aid Agreements

WASHINGTON, June 28—The governments of Ireland and Italy today took action on European Recovery Act aid agreements which State department spokesmen said will set the pattern for the other 14 nations participating in the program.

Under the law, all ERP acts must be signed by midnight next Saturday and the other beneficiary countries are expected to follow Ireland and Italy quickly in completing the agreements.

State department officials said the agreements signed by the first two nations to conclude the formalities make it clear that the United States does not seek to dominate the economies of recipient nations, as critics have charged.

The Irish agreement was signed at 7 a. m. (EST) and the Italian pact was signed at 11:30 a. m. (EST).

IN GENERAL, the agreements follow the outline specified by the law passed by the recent Congress. They provide: 1. The United States agrees to furnish Italy and Ireland assistance but reserves the right to terminate aid at any time in accordance with the law.

2. Italy and Ireland agree to make full and efficient use of their resources, to mobilize assets in the United States belonging to their nationals, to promote production and take necessary measures to establish financial stability.

3. For goods made available without cost to the recipient government local currencies will be set aside for administrative expenses of the United States missions in the foreign countries.

4. The recipient government will make available, for stockpiling or other purposes such materials as are needed and which can be supplied.

5. American travel in the two countries is to be facilitated and relief supplies are to be given free entry.

6. The United States is to receive "full information necessary for planning and carrying out the recovery program and full publicity is to be given the program."

Tito Expelled By Cominform As 'Trotskyist'

LONDON, June 28—Reports received in London and Paris today said that the Communist Information Bureau (Cominform) has expelled Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia on the grounds he is a "Trotskyist."

The reports said that the Yugoslav Communist Party also was expelled from the organization.

The Cominform met in Prague recently just before a major conference in Warsaw between Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov and foreign ministers of the satellite nations.

Reuters news agency said that it was checking reports of the expulsions from Prague. French foreign office sources confirmed receipt of the reports but had no formal confirmation.

In Rome, Italian Senator Eugenio Reale confirmed that the Cominform would make public the results of its deliberations in two or three weeks. He said: "I don't hesitate to add they will be sensational."

The agreements are to remain in force until June 30, 1953, a year after termination of the proposed four-year program. This is to leave a period after the end of assistance for the completion of operations.

If either government or the United States feels that there is a change in the situation which caused ERP to be adopted, they will consult to determine whether the agreement is to be modified or terminated.

Publication of the agreements will start a race for final signing by the benefiting powers no later than next Saturday midnight. Under the law these agreements must be finally approved before then or the flow of ERP goods will be halted indefinitely.

Filipino Actor Admits Slaying Manila Actress

MANILA, June 28—Philippine Movie Actor Bernardo Azures confessed today that he murdered his beautiful leading lady, Lillian Velez, and her housemaid.

Azures made the admission to police of Quezon City shortly after he was arrested in his father's home. The youthful actor told the authorities: "I did it. I was under a spell. I don't know why or how I did it."

The lovely Miss Velez, who was 24, was stabbed to death early yesterday. Police charged that Azures, who had co-starred with the actress in several films, quarreled violently with Miss Velez in the presence of her four-year-old daughter.

Police said that when Azures attacked her, Miss Velez screamed and the maid, 15, was fatally stabbed when she rushed in to intervene.

EARLIER today, the actor surrendered without a struggle when police came to his father's home in the city's Sampaloc district. The father, Miguel Azures, a character actor in Philippine motion pictures, aided police by personally appealing to his son to give himself up.

16,000 Unionists To Leave CIO

CLEVELAND, June 28—Ken Eckert, National chairman of the CIO-Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers union casting division, reported today that 24 locals in the division have seceded from the parent union.

Eckert said the action was taken because of the locals' dissatisfaction of the parent union's failure to comply with the non-Communist provision of the Taft-Hartley law.

He said the 24 locals, all in the casting division, represent 16,000 of the 20,000 members in the division.

4 Persons Hurt In Pair Of Auto Mishaps Here

Four persons were injured in Pickaway County traffic accidents Saturday, one of whom was considered "only fair" Monday noon in Doctor's hospital in Columbus.

The injured were: George C. Felty, 20, of Hopeville, Ky., driver of one car which overturned on Route 22, three miles east of New Holland; and two passengers, Miss Carrie Holbert, 14, Washington C. H. Route 5, and Junior Travis, 18, of Clyde.

In the second accident, Charles E. Jones, 16, of Circleville Route 4, was injured when his motorbike crashed head-on with an automobile in Tarlton, State Highway Patrolman C. E. Wells reported.

The accident in which Felty and his two youthful passengers were injured occurred at 11 p. m. Saturday. Travis, least injured of the trio, told Patrolman Wells the car was travelling "about 65 miles per hour" when it went out of control on a turn.

PATROLMAN Wells said Felty suffered a fractured skull, brain concussion, and his right ear was severed from the head. Miss Holbert received a fractured nose and lacerated forehead.

Little Relief Seen As New Heat Hits Ohio

Ohio is in the grip of another hot spell, with the weather bureau predicting a high temperature range of between 85 and 95 degrees over the state Monday and Tuesday.

Forecasters said that scattered thundershowers would bring only temporary relief from the muggy heat.

"The weather picture shows very little activity," they said. "A high pressure area from the southwest is dormant and is holding out cooler air from the northwest."

Moderate to heavy thundershowers occurred late Sunday, with Columbus reporting 1.40 inches of rain during the period.

At least 13 persons met sudden accidental death in Ohio over the weekend, with drownings and automobile crashes contributing six and four fatalities, respectively.

Three drownings occurred in the Dayton area within a short time of each other Sunday afternoon as residents sought relief from the heat.

New Legal Action Looms Against Lewis, Miners

WASHINGTON, June 28—The prospect of new legal action against John L. Lewis threatens today to disturb the comparative calm on the labor-management front.

Steel interests, which refused to sign the recently-negotiated 1948 coal wage contract, are scheduled to decide within the next 48 hours whether to file unfair labor practice charges against Lewis.

"Big steel" objected to the new mine-wage agreement on grounds that its union shop clause violated the Taft-Hartley law.

The Taft-Hartley law provides that a majority of employees must approve the union shop in an NLRB election. However, the UMW is ineligible for such a ballot because Lewis and other officers have not signed non-Communist affidavits.

THE NEW COAL contract accepted by operators producing 65 percent of the nation's soft coal tonnage, renewed the union shop provision of the miners' 1947 contract, which was made before the Taft-Hartley law became effective.

Orient Inmate Dies In Fight Late Saturday

Dr. Lloyd Jonnes, Pickaway County coroner, said Monday no charges would be filed by his office against Raymond Schuler, an inmate in the Orient state hospital, for the death of Clifford L. Kinner, 41, another inmate, in a fight late Saturday in the hospital.

According to the coroner, Kinner was mistreating a younger ward when Schuler struck Kinner on the chin.

Kinner took a few steps, sat down on a stool, turned blue and died within a few minutes, Coroner Jonnes reported.

Death was attributed to fractures in neck bones caused by the blow to Kinner's chin, Dr. Jonnes stated.

The body will remain in the hospital's morgue until claimed by nearest of kin. Dr. Jonnes had no information on home addresses of the men involved.

Kiernan's ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Russians have a point in clearing Berlin of Democratic forces. They can point to the fact that Philadelphia has just removed large numbers of Republicans.

Soviet methods are very thorough. They are planning to capture Berlin for a second time.

But it must now be apparent to everyone that the decision to let the Russians take Berlin in 1945 was one of the brilliant political coups of the war—for the Russians.

Anyway the Democratic convention is due in two more weeks and we should have the answer to this and many other problems. Meanwhile I understand Taft wired Walcott, "We made a nice try."

Truman OKs ERP Bill

$7 Billion Fund Given Go-Ahead

WASHINGTON, June 28—President Truman today signed the seven billion, 85 million dollar global aid appropriation through which the United States hopes to speed world recovery and halt Communist aggression.

The chief executive hailed the measure as a substantial step toward achievement of enduring peace and prosperity throughout the world.

Mr. Truman declared: "As finally enacted, this appropriation is substantially in accord with the program presented to the Congress six months ago."

"It represents the combined judgment and will of the executive and the Congress. It was evolved in the spirit of cooperation and not of partisan conflict. "It demonstrates the united determination of our people to make good our pledge of cooperation to those who, like ourselves, are striving to achieve enduring peace and prosperity among all nations."

THE BILL, passed just before adjournment of the 80th Congress and after six months of bitter debate, carries $6.3 billion for a 12-month spending period.

The appropriation, plus previous advances of $1.55 billion dollars for European recovery, brings the overall foreign aid program to seven billion 85 million dollars.

temblor, the center of which lay on the bed of the Japan sea.

Additional heavy casualties and damage were anticipated as a result of the tidal onset.

A SHARP earthquake hit Hawaii early today, but there were no immediate reports of serious damage.

Tokyo and other large cities on Honshu and in the northern part of Kyushu island felt the temblor, but only the Western Honshu areas suffered extensive casualties and damage.

Yomiuri said that probably 400,000 persons were "involved" through injuries to themselves or their property throughout the three stricken western provinces.

At 10 o'clock tonight Kanazawa still was feeling tremors. Residents were bedding down in the streets and parks, rather than return to their shaken or wrecked homes.

American and Japanese relief agencies rushed aid to the stricken areas by train, truck and jeep.

So far there were no reports of any American or other Allied casualties.

Communications still were out to Fukui at 10 p. m. This was shortly after the Osaka radio reported that a tidal wave had hit the coast of Fukui prefecture.

BEFORE the tidal wave rushed up, the city of Fukui already had been at least 90 percent destroyed by the quake and resultant fire.

South of Fukui the railroad was cut by the quake, so rescue crews were forced to use motor roads to get to the devastated city.

Two trains were reported derailed by the temblor with a heavy toll of casualties among the passengers of one of them.

Military government teams at Kanazawa and Toyama reported to Eighth Army headquarters in Yokohama that all Allied personnel there were safe and uninjured and damage was light in those cities.

Booster Club Presidency Poll Is Deadlocked

The race for president's office of the Circleville Booster club, following the annual election picnic at Tar Hollow Park Sunday, was so close that as of Monday noon no new top official had been proclaimed. The contestants for the position are John Heiskell and James Callahan.

Dr. W. F. Heine, last year's president, said Monday the outcome of the election would be decided by Booster's absentee ballots.

Nearly 80 Booster clubbers and their families turned out for the Sunday picnic, races and games staged following the election and lunch.

Officers who were elected into the office for the coming year were Wayne Leist, vice-president; Wendell Turner, secretary; and Robert Brehmer Jr., treasurer.

FOUR NEW directors also were elected. They were Paul Woodward, Chester Stark, Clark Martin and Cecil Andrews.

Prizes including tennis racquets, tennis balls, a softball, softball bat, football, football glove and doll baby were awarded winners of races for children.

In addition, all the youngsters attending the picnic were given rubber-propelled "boomerang planes."

New Legal Action Looms Against Lewis, Miners

The steel company miners agreed to accept the $1-a-day pay boost and the 20 cents-a-ton welfare royalty contained in the new soft coal contract but not its union security provisions.

If they should file charges against Lewis, NLRB General Counsel Robert Denham they will have to decide whether the situation constitutes an emergency which would require a new court injunction against the miners' union.

Lewis' 400,000 soft coal diggers currently are on vacation. Those employed in steel company mines are not expected to return to work July 6 unless the steel interests have signed a new contract by then. Elsewhere on the labor front, the only major "holdouts" in the "third-round" wage race are shipping, telephones, railroads and steel.

In none of these four, however, is there a threat of an immediate strike and government labor experts are highly optimistic over prospects for continued industrial peace.

Yanks Press Use Of Big Sky Trains

The Soviet attempt to starve the Western Powers out of Berlin is proving itself very expensive economically for the Russians.

Col. Frank L. Howley, U. S. commandant in the former German capital, said today the Soviets are getting "a lesson in the interdependence of the people of Berlin."

HOWLEY said the Russians have seized the Allied hard coal stockpile at Klingenberg which held about six weeks supply.

When this is exhausted the Soviets will be forced to buy coal "which is like gold" from Poland, where the supply already is short.

Howley termed the Russian promise to feed all of Berlin a "colossal bluff."

He pointed out that this would necessitate a 10 percent ration cut in the Soviet zone or large food shipments from Russia.

At the same time the U. S. Commandant charged the Kremlin with "complete brutality" in cutting off fresh milk supplies from the western section of Berlin, thereby endangering the lives of six thousand babies.

Lad's Condition Reported Fair

Elmer Lowery, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lowery of Lowery Lane, was listed as being in "fair" condition Monday following head injuries he received Friday afternoon while playing with his father's horse in an adjoining lot to his home.

Lowery remained unconscious for more than 24 hours following the accident, and tentative diagnosis was given as "concussion."

The lad was found in an unconscious state in the field near his father's horse about noon Friday by his younger sister and a neighbor, and was taken to his home. The attending physician recommended the lad not be removed from the home at the time.

Tot Is Bitten By Dog Sunday

Mrs. Collins said the child and her sister had been playing in their front yard when the dog ran into the yard, bit the child on the hip and fled down an adjoining alley.

The child was given the first of the anti-rabies treatments Monday.

6th Degree Temblor Hits Honshu

temblor, the center of which lay on the bed of the Japan sea.

Additional heavy casualties and damage were anticipated as a result of the tidal onset.

A SHARP earthquake hit Hawaii early today, but there were no immediate reports of serious damage.

Tokyo and other large cities on Honshu and in the northern part of Kyushu island felt the temblor, but only the Western Honshu areas suffered extensive casualties and damage.

Yomiuri said that probably 400,000 persons were "involved" through injuries to themselves or their property throughout the three stricken western provinces.

At 10 o'clock tonight Kanazawa still was feeling tremors. Residents were bedding down in the streets and parks, rather than return to their shaken or wrecked homes.

American and Japanese relief agencies rushed aid to the stricken areas by train, truck and jeep.

So far there were no reports of any American or other Allied casualties.

Communications still were out to Fukui at 10 p. m. This was shortly after the Osaka radio reported that a tidal wave had hit the coast of Fukui prefecture.

BEFORE the tidal wave rushed up, the city of Fukui already had been at least 90 percent destroyed by the quake and resultant fire.

South of Fukui the railroad was cut by the quake, so rescue crews were forced to use motor roads to get to the devastated city.

Two trains were reported derailed by the temblor, with a heavy toll of casualties among the passengers of one of them.

Military government teams at Kanazawa and Toyama reported to Eighth Army headquarters in Yokohama that all Allied personnel there were safe and uninjured and damage was light in those cities.

Booster Club Presidency Poll Is Deadlocked

The race for president's office of the Circleville Booster club, following the annual election picnic at Tar Hollow Park Sunday, was so close that as of Monday noon no new top official had been proclaimed. The contestants for the position are John Heiskell and James Callahan.

Dr. W. F. Heine, last year's president, said Monday the outcome of the election would be decided by Booster's absentee ballots.

Nearly 80 Booster clubbers and their families turned out for the Sunday frolic, races and games staged following the election and lunch.

Officers who were elected into the office for the coming year were Wayne Leist, vice-president; Wendell Turner, secretary; and Robert Brehmer Jr., treasurer.

FOUR NEW directors also were elected. They were Paul Woodward, Chester Starkewy, Clark Martin and Cecil Andrews.

Prizes including tennis racquets, tennis balls, a softball, softball bat, football, softball glove and doll baby were awarded winners of races for children.

In addition, all the youngsters attending the picnic were given rubber-propelled "boomerang planes."

the agreements was expected to touch off bitter rows in many of the receiving countries.

PUBLICITY given the conferences preceding agreement on the final drafts has aroused widespread apprehension in many capitals that the United States will try to control their internal affairs by various requirements.

Most important of these are the provisions covering the currency of the European countries. Original provisions contained in a State department draft admittedly would have given the United States some say-so on currency devaluation.

These provisions were said by officials to have been drafted hastily and designed only to provide a talking point for the conferees. The provisions were re-drafted and any European criticism now is felt to be unjustified.

In addition it is believed that the Communist elements would use every obstructionist tactic possible in nations where they are strong.

While this might amount only to parliamentary opposition in some countries, it might assume violent aspects in such key nations as France and Italy. Discussions on the agreements has been proceeding in Washington for the past three weeks. Master agreements with Britain, France, Denmark and Sweden are expected to provide a pattern for all remaining 12 powers.

Both horses were foaled at Braeburn Farm and received their early training there.

iff Deputies Carl Radcliff and Vern L. Pontius arrived at the scene. Feltly was pinned under the overturned vehicle, Wells said.

The three occupants of the car were removed to a physician's office in Washington. C. H. Feltly was given immediate first aid and transferred to the Columbus hospital.

Young Jones was injured Saturday afternoon when the motorbike on which he was riding collided with a car driven by Lawrence H. Hoey, 27, of Tarleton, on Route 159 in Tarleton.

Patrolman Wells reported Hoey was travelling east when the motorbike approached him on the wrong side of the street. Hoey told the officer he stopped his car and Jones drove his machine into the front end of the auto.

THE INJURED boy was removed to a physician's office where 15 clamps were required to close a gash in his right leg.

Walnut Clubbers First To Get Health Exams

Eleven members of the Walnut Sew and Sew 4-H club reported to the offices of County Health Commissioner A. D. Blackburn for their annual physical exam.

The physical exam was the first of 32 scheduled for the various 4-H groups in Pickaway County during the Summer as part of the 4-H "Honor Club" competition. Clubs completing at least 85 percent of a 100 percent program, in which the physical exam counts 10 percent, are to receive the "Honor Club" title.

The current physical examinations are part also of the selection of Pickaway County's "healthiest boy and girl", who will represent the county at the next Ohio State Fair in the Fall.

Rural Accident Toll Detailed

COLUMBUS, June 28—Ohio people have twice as good a chance to escape accidents when they are inside urban corporation limits than when they are in rural areas; but the records of the Ohio Safety Council show it was eight times as dangerous to be a resident of Ottawa County than to reside in Paulding County in 1947.

W. E. Stuckey, farm safety specialist, Ohio State university, says a list of the accidental death rate in Ohio counties last year shows Paulding at the top and Ottawa at the bottom. Paulding county had 18.3 deaths from accidental causes for each 100,000 population and Ottawa county's rate was 146.8 accidental deaths for each 100,000 population.

The 10 counties with the lowest accidental death rate in 1947 are Paulding, Adams, Defiance, Vinton, Noble, Cuyahoga, Summit, Highland, Pike and Lawrence.

That list might seem to provide evidence that rural areas are the safest because all except Cuyahoga and Summit are rural areas. The safety balance swings to the big city counties because all of them have a better rate than the state average of 72.6 accidental deaths per 100,000 population.

THE APPALLING death rate is only a part of the tragedy of Ohio accidents. Slight or serious injuries to several persons are reported to the Safety Council for every death recorded. Injuries cause loss of working time and the total expense for medical or hospital care is an enormous amount annually.

Some Ohio counties have appointed committees to plan and conduct safety campaigns. Homes and farms are checked periodically to locate hazards to safety and the dangers are removed. Motor vehicles, power tools, and falls are the greatest hazards and most of the accidents caused by them can be avoided by a little less haste and a little more caution.

Hoosier Killed In Rail Mishap

BRYAN, June 28—The body of a Peru, Ind., brakeman for the Wabash railroad was scheduled to be returned to his home today. Leroy E. Rushing, 30, who was injured Saturday when the freight train he was riding collided with a freighter of the Cincinnati and Northern Ohio line at West Unity, died here yesterday of internal injuries.

Engineer Glenn McNutt, 35, and Fireman Henry Pier, 33, are in a Peru hospital for treatment and observation.

ST. MARYS, June 28—A weekend picnic had ended in tragedy today for Wilmer Haver and his wife from Lima.

Their five-year-old daughter, Dorothy Marie, drowned yesterday afternoon in Lake St. Marys harbor near the office of the state park.

A search for the child started when she was found to be missing from the family outing. Her body was recovered by Patrolman M. A. Durbin and Park Superintendent John Sunderland.

Beets for Summer and Winter Use

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Distributed by Central Press Association

LIKE other root vegetables, beets are a double-purpose crop in the Freedom garden.

Successive plantings, therefore, should be made to provide ample amounts of young beets for the table throughout the summer and mature beets for winter storage.

July is not too late for planting a late crop of beets but they should be thinned early to give the remaining ones every assistance in growing and maturing. When thinning late beets, the "pulled" plants need not be wasted. They can be transplanted to any vacant spot in the Freedom garden.

Beets which are not to be allowed to grow and mature for winter storage purposes, but are wanted for table use, are at their best when the roots are 1½ to 2 inches in diameter.

Many gardeners pull some beets when they are one inch in diameter, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. When this size, the roots and the tops can be cooked together. The combination makes a delicious dish.

You may find beet foliage disfigured with spots, as illustrated. This leaf spot is a fungus disease. It can be controlled by spraying with Bordeaux mixture, or dusting with a copper-lime when the spots first appear. Repeat the treatment at 10-day intervals.

Crop rotation and disinfecting of the seeds before planting are two helpful ways of keeping down leaf spot on beets.

Louis Shows Business Prowess; Bout Cancels $80,000 Debt

NEW YORK, June 27—A bright business future is predicted for Joe Louis who made one of boxing's all-time sharpest deals for himself before meeting Jersey Joe Walcott in their return match.

Louis came out of the match with a purse estimated at approximately $300,000, but he also received $80,000 in the form of a debt cancellation.

The story starts last Jan. 4, when Louis walked into the offices of Promoter Herman Taylor in Philadelphia and said he wanted to make his return defense against the Camden, N. J., challenger in Philadelphia's municipal stadium.

Just a month before, on Dec. 5, Walcott had clowned and cutted to a 15-round disputed defeat against the champion, and Louis was well aware of the promotional value of the encore.

PROMOTER Taylor made a deal with Louis which would have given the champion a $100,000 bonus for signing, plus the usual percentage of receipts and other revenue.

Ailing Mike Jacobs got wind of this transaction and promptly hemmed Louis in a corner of the offices of the 20th Century Sporting Club in New York.

"Joe, we have been getting along well together through all these years," Jacobs said by way of opening the negotiations.

WHY "Stepping Down" IS SO IMPORTANT TO YOU

Hudson amazes motor-car world by using vital "step-down" zone—not available in any other car—to bring you riding qualities and safety beyond anything known before!

Word's going 'round—and fast, too—that Hudson gives you a "sweet," smooth, safe ride that is a new high in motor-car performance!

Perhaps you've heard pleased and proud Hudson owners talking about this exciting new experience, but here's something you may have missed hearing:

The key to this amazing new ride lies in that area just under the floor of the average car, which in the New Hudson becomes the "step-down" zone—as illustrated in the sketches at the right.

This "step-down" zone is all-important, because experience has shown that the lower to the ground a car can be built, the better it will handle, the more stability it will have, the safer it will be, and thus the more enjoyable and comfortable will be your ride.

Hudson, and Hudson alone, has accomplished a near miracle of low-built streamlining and smooth, safe, comfortable riding with a new type of base frame which surrounds the passenger compartment, and thus permits the floor to be lowered down within it. Recessing the floor creates the "step-down" zone and a center of gravity that is the lowest in any American stock car—yet road clearance is ample!

That's why Hudson has a hug-the-road way of going, even in cross-winds, and on every conceivable kind of highway. When you see how this car takes even the sharpest curves, it will spoil you for any other type of automobile! You sense this delightful conformity to the road the minute you begin your ride, and this stability, plus the protection of riding encircled by a sturdy box-section steel frame, gives you a grand feeling of safe well-being.

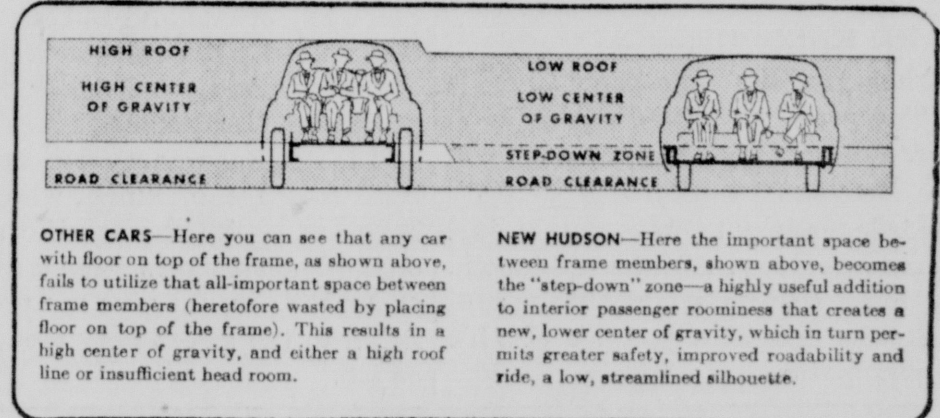

Sitting in this car is as downright satisfying as stretching out in your favorite easy chair. You ride on seats that are lowered and cradled ahead of the rear wheels and, even with its low silhouette, this breathtakingly beautiful motor car gives you more head room than any other mass-produced car built today!

Hudson's use of the vital "step-down" zone in its exclusive, all steel Monohilt body-and-frame* is a development that required years of engineering work, the perfection of new production techniques, and millions of dollars in highly specialized new plant investment. Perhaps this explains why Hudson alone offers this new design principle today.

OTHER CARS—Here you can see that any car with floor on top of the frame, as shown above, fails to utilize that all-important space between frame members (heretofore wasted by placing floor on top of the frame). This results in a high center of gravity, and either a high roof line or insufficient head room.

NEW HUDSON—Here the important space between frame members, shown above, becomes the "step-down" zone—a highly useful addition to interior passenger roominess that creates a new, lower center of gravity, which in turn permits greater safety, improved roadability and ride, a low, streamlined silhouette.

ENFORCED BARGAINING

THE FINAL outcome of contract negotiations between coal miners and mine operators may be significant to labor bargaining generally, since the courts are being used to a greater extent than ever before to enforce continuance of bargaining. The worth of the method, as far as the public good is concerned, is to be judged by whether or not normal production of coal can be maintained until ultimate agreement is reached.

If a new contract is worked out and placed in effect without further work stoppage in the mines, the case may suggest a possible new pattern for government participation in labor-management negotiations. The operations of the National Labor Relations Board, its predecessors and other federal mediation agencies, and the various labor laws enacted over the past decade or two, all have been intended to keep employment bargaining on a peaceful plane. Thus far none of the laws or mediation machinery has proved fully successful in gaining that end.

Success now under court procedures in the coal mine case would be only partial, for an initial strike had already occurred before court action began. But such a partial success might suggest ways in which future occasions for strikes could be removed altogether.

NEW FREEWAYS

PENNSYLVANIA has completed arrangements to finance a 100-mile extension of its Turnpike, the super highway with which the state made road-building news all over the nation a few years ago.
But the new extension is not likely to attract nearly so much attention, because similar road development is under way in many other places.

When the Pennsylvania Turnpike was new, it was the nation's first long-distance express freeway. Today the country is dotted with growing sections of super highway, many of which are comparable with the Pennsylvania road in all respects except the limitation of access. With points of access 15 to 25 miles apart, the Turnpike has few competitors on that score.

Such highways have contributed greatly to reduction of motor vehicle accidents, but they are not foolproof. And this is the season when the vehicles, whether foolishly or otherwise driven, are thickest. Until a really foolproof highway is devised, there is great merit in the slogan: "Spend a minute. Save a life."

HE KNEW DICKENS

A MAN has just died who knew Charles Dickens. The great novelist died in 1870, and is now followed by his gardener,
George C. Woolley, who lived to be 96.

Dickens is legendary to most people, just like his contemporary, Abraham Lincoln.
Yet there must still be a fair number of Americans who caught a glimpse of the Great Emancipator.

WASHINGTON — The supersonic secret is out — Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington was "scooped" by several months on his recent announcement that an American plane has flown faster than the speed of sound.

Symington's disclosure made it official, however, that the United States seems to have won the world race to cross the supersonic barrier first.

Many aviation writers had written that the Bell rocket-propelled XS-1 sonic research plane had surpassed sound-speed, which is 763 miles an hour at sea level but grows less at a greater altitude where the air is thinner and thus more easily penetrated.

The official disclosure came only after a heated behind-the-scenes argument.

Some military leaders and Dr. Vannevar Bush, head of all military research, opposed the announcement on the grounds that it would enable potential enemies to abandon research on all types of planes except those with XS-1 characteristics. The blueprints on XS-1 have been widely published.

Other world powers must, however, suspect what has been broadly hinted in American publications—that another sonic plane, the Douglas Skystreak, has also cracked the barrier, and that a new type, the Douglas Skystreak, is expected to

George E. Sokolsky's

Well, it was utter and complete madness and I got to bed about five a. m., after the last day of the Republican convention. Now I understand why the German intellectuals fell for Hitler; after the third or fourth demonstration at this convention, I was ready to scream, Heil! Hurrah! A bas! To hell with it!

Somebody suggested that it would be all right to abolish the speeches and to have nothing but demonstrations. That was early in the evening. After a half hour of a Dewey demonstration, I was ready to abolish speeches and demonstrations and have nothing but cameramen.

Mind you, I had a good time, for noise is infectious and everybody gets to yelling even if his friend is getting a raw deal by being put on the spot by being nominated for a presidential election, which is nearly as bad for the head and heart as the White House itself. So, what do you do—you stand and cheer like the other boobs, knowing all the time that each demonstration is a synthetic affair, worked up by the publicity department, paid for in each department.

I wondered where these press agents got all the small boys and girls, the so-called "youth-in-action" that made all the noise and demonstrations. It looked as though there were a million of them from where I stood.

These young ones are funny. Like the youthful girl I lunched with who looked at me as though I were a thousand-year-old Chinese egg when I told her that life is real and earnest and all that—well, this gal was making for a Stassen demonstration. She was telling me—me, mind you—about Stassen's idealism. So the youth leader she bumped into shouted to her,
"We're now for Vandenberg." And that is the noble idealism for which these young people suffer.

Well, I can forgive them because, after all, the Italians fell for noise, excitement and speeches and so do the Russians, the Chinese and the Turks. And so do you and I and it would be a dull world without all this. So eat your hot dog and drink your coke and listen to the orations.

Now, speaking of orations, there is nothing to speak about. The best convention speech was Herbert Hoover's; the second best Congressman Judd's when he nominated Harold Stassen, and if you like evangelism, John Bricker's when he nominated Taft. The rest was pretty low, except Senator Homer Ferguson, who will go down in history as the first man with common sense in any party. Ferguson seconded Vandenberg's nomination without a speech, for which he should have been given at least the vice-presidency if not the big job itself—common sense being so rare a quality in convention halls.

Well, the oratory is punk generally and it all sounds the same and I would recommend that a ghost-writers' union be organized to save the public from repetition.
That would be the most popular union in America. No speech needs to last longer than 15 or 20 minutes and less, considering what they say, but the boys feel that the delegates need to fill their time. Compared to oratory, a jukebox is a pleasure. Clare Luce wrote that she cut her speech to live up to Barney Baruch's adage on brevity.
Clare is glorious and Barney is a sage and Clare need not apologize for her speech, which was in good English except for the attempted Vandenberg blitz, which was in bad taste. But apart from that, Clare had it all over Irene Dunne, whom I could not hear even with the terrific magnification of the loudspeakers because nobody around me would give me a chance to listen to the sweet lady pleading a lost cause.

IF THE CONTRACT is in No Trumps, the number of spots on the small cards may prove decisive. That factor counts much more in No Trump play than in a suit contract, in which there may be only one to three rounds of tricks in any single side suit, with later rounds trumped by one side or the other. In No Trumps there is nearly always some one suit, sometimes more than one, in which all of the cards get played on leads of that suit, so that the relative size of two or more long ones on a late trick of the suit decides who gets the trick. And the question of who takes that particular trick may determine whether the contract is made or beaten.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

MRS. WOODFORD took a sip of the punch and whirled on her husband. "Huntley! Is this—is it—?"

Huntley looked at his wife with a perfectly straight face. "Just fruit juices, my dear," he murmured. "Of course, there may be a little maraschino in it, or something like that—"

Bigelow, who was lading out the punch, took him up with a twinkle. "That's—ah—rather odd flavor is some imported grape juice I brought Mr. Paulson when I came up. Perhaps that's what you taste."

"Perhaps," Mrs. Woodford drained her cup. "It's delicious. I think I'll have another cup and then, Huntley, I must have another look at Mr. Paulson's library. Don't you think we could fit up that little den of yours so that it looks a little less like an abandoned squirrel nest?"

Huntley, looking alarmed, sped after his wife. His den was his one refuge, and he wasn't going to have it "decorated." A voice at Andrew's elbow. "How many glasses did she take?"

He turned to find Mrs. Potts beside him. "Welcome!" he cried. "Of course, you've seen it in the process of getting done over, but how do you think it looks now?"

"It's lovely," she sighed, letting her prominent eyes roam at will over the now crowded dining room. "But I had a reason for asking about Mrs. Woodford, Andy."

"Oh." He thought back to her question. "Only one glass, and she walked off with another to sip at while she examines the library. Why?"

"Well," Emma Potts had a wicked light in her eyes, "now's your time to catch her. I bet you could get an order out of her to do over their summer place, or build on that wing she's always talking about. You'd better go after her."

Andrew, however, did not have the chance to profit by her advice. At that very moment, the McClures arrived, squired by Mr. Emmens and his nephew Ellery. Mrs. McClure stood in the doorway, with her hands clasped tensely. "Mr. Paulson, what a transformation! Why, I'd never know this was the old Wheeler place."

She beamed on him. "And don't the curtains look nice here? Oh, I'm glad I didn't see it before, but let it all burst on me this way."

Joan smiled at him stiffly, and Andrew's heart sank. He had counted on her being reconciled to his outlay when she saw what he had done to the old house. The disappointment was acute. He followed the McClures around, once they had been served, neglecting his role of host for a short while, because he wanted to see Joan's reaction to the living room.

It was all that he could have wished, even though she tried to cover it at once with her cool manner. But she paused in the doorway, and her mouth rounded in pleased surprise at that first glimpse. She started to turn to him with an exclamation of pleasure, then caught herself, and entered the room instead.

Most of the guests were gathered there by now, and Bigelow and Andrew began to pass the supper plates on which the hot dish was arranged. This was a casserole of shrimps, chicken, and mushrooms, cooked in a white wine sauce. There were also a salad of fresh fruit in gelatin with grenadine, crusty breadsticks and fresh hot rolls, and hearts of celery.

Mrs. Potts caught at Andrew's sleeve as he passed. "Did you make this, Andy?" she whispered. "If you did, and you've been fooling me playing dumb about cooking, I'll never forgive you!"

"All I did was the scullery work," he answered with a laugh. "And I did butter the rolls. But Biggy wouldn't let me touch anything else—he said I'd be sure to spoil it."

Mrs. Potts looked at Bigelow with new admiration. "My stars, who'd have thought it?" she inquired, taking in his neat business suit, his quiet, rather staid air. "Why, he's talented enough to be a—a woman!" she burst out.

At that moment, there was a crash at the far end of the room. Gloria, unaccustomed to balancing a plate upon her knee, had grown restless on the leather hassock where she was sitting, and had shifted her legs with disastrous results to the Crown Derby. "Gloria!" her mother almost shrieked, rising with one swift motion, and flying to the side of her awkward daughter.

Andrew was on the scene almost as quickly. "Did it get on your dress?" he asked. Gloria had worn her very best, a pale blue wool which made her look even larger than she was, but which he knew was her pride and joy.

"No," she sobbed, more unnerved by his kindness than by her mother's fury. "No, but I broke your p-plate!"

"I have plenty," he consoled her. "And see, it didn't even get on the rug. We'll have this mess up in a jiffy." Even as he spoke, Bigelow approached with a dustpan, and a damp cloth, and Andrew said, thinking to give her a chance to compose herself, "Now you come out to the kitchen with me, and we'll fix you up another plate."

At this, Gloria burst into louder sobs, and her mother hustled her from the room. But not before, in the sudden silence which fell over the group, Eph had said clearly, "Too bad Emma will try and make a silk purse out of the apple of her eye."

Mrs. Potts paused only long enough to hurl a retort over her shoulder. "Yes, and you can lead a horse to water, but you can't keep a fool's tongue quiet!"

Andrew was worried. He hoped fervently that nothing disastrous would happen to his party. Everything had been going so well—so very well. And now this.

ENFORCED BARGAINING

THE FINAL outcome of contract negotiations between coal miners and mine operators may be significant to labor bargaining generally, since the courts are being used to a greater extent than ever before to enforce continuance of bargaining. The worth of the method, as far as the public good is concerned, is to be judged by whether or not normal production of coal can be maintained until ultimate agreement is reached.

If a new contract is worked out and placed in effect without further work stoppage in the mines, the case may suggest a possible new pattern for government participation in labor-management negotiations. The operations of the National Labor Relations Board, its predecessors and other federal mediation agencies, and the various labor laws enacted over the past decade or two, all have been intended to keep employment bargaining on a peaceful plane. Thus far none of the laws or mediation machinery has proved fully successful in gaining that end.

Success now under court procedures in the coal mine case would be only partial, for an initial strike had already occurred before court action began. But such a partial success might suggest ways in which future occasions for strikes could be removed altogether.

NEW FREEWAYS

PENNSYLVANIA has completed arrangements to finance a 100-mile extension of its Turnpike, the superhighway with which the state made road-building news all over the nation a few years ago. But the new extension is not likely to attract nearly so much attention, because a similar road development is under way in many other places.

When the Pennsylvania Turnpike was new, it was the nation's first long-distance express freeway. Today the country is dotted with growing sections of superhighway, many of which are comparable with the Pennsylvania road in all respects except the limitation of access. With points of access 15 to 25 miles apart, the Turnpike has few competitors on that score.

Such highways have contributed greatly to reduction of motor vehicle accidents, but they are not foolproof. And this is the season when the vehicles, whether foolishly or otherwise driven, are thickest. Until a really foolproof highway is devised, there is great merit in the slogan: "Spend a minute. Save a life."

The single game-maker had to get a bit of help, as it developed. East opened the spade J because North did not seem to like that suit after his partner bid it in response to the double. This trick brought out the Q and K, and West returned his 10. South was smart enough to duck that with the 3, whereupon West did just what the declarer hoped, led the 6. When that turned the 7 into a trick-taker, South was overjoyed. Normal play the rest of the way enabled him to add three tricks in hearts and two each in the minors to the brace of spade tricks to have the nine he needed.

That contract was set by entirely different defense. The club 5 brought the K and A, heart K lost to the A, club 10 brought the J and Q, spade J used the Q and K, spade 10 was ducked, but this West was keen enough to avoid another spade lead, preferring the diamond 2. As a result this declarer got only one trick in spades and could find only seven more. He lost a club at the finish, so was down one.

Huntley, looking alarmed, sped after his wife. His den was his one refuge, and he wasn't going to have it "decorated." A voice at Andrew's elbow. "How many glasses did she take?"

He turned to find Mrs. Potts beside him. "Welcome!" he cried. "Of course, you've seen it in the process of getting done over, but how do you think it looks now?"

"It's lovely," she sighed, letting her prominent eyes roam at will over the now crowded dining room. "But I had a reason for asking about Mrs. Woodford, Andy."

"Oh," he thought back to her question. "Only one glass, and she walked off with another to sip at while she examines the library. Why?"

"Well," Emma Potts had a wicked light in her eyes, "now's your time to catch her. I bet you could get an order out of her to do over their summer place, or build on that wing she's always talking about. You'd better go after her."

Andrew, however, did not have the chance to profit by her advice. At that very moment, the McClures arrived, escorted by Mr. Emmens and his nephew Ellery. Mrs. McClure stood in the doorway, with her hands clasped tensely. "Mr. Paulson, what a transformation! Why, I'd never known this was the old Wheeler place."

She beamed on him. "And don't the curtains look nice here? Oh, I'm glad I didn't see it before, but let it all burst on me this way."

Joan smiled at him stiffly, and Andrew's heart sank. He had counted on her being reconciled to his outlay when she saw what he had done to the old house. The disappointment was acute. He followed the McClures around, once they had been served, neglecting his role of host for a short while, because he wanted to see Joan's reaction to the living room.

It was all that he could have wished, even though she tried to cover it at once with her cool manner. But she paused in the doorway, and her mouth rounded in pleased surprise at that first glimpse. She started to turn to him with an exclamation of pleasure, then caught herself, and entered the room instead.

Most of the guests were gathered there by now, and Bigelow and Andrew began to pass the supper plates on which the hot dish was arranged. This was a casserole of shrimps, chicken, and mushrooms, cooked in a white wine sauce. There were also a salad of fresh fruit in gelatin with grenadine, crusty breadsticks and fresh hot rolls, and hearts of celery.

Mrs. Potts caught at Andrew's sleeve as he passed. "Did you make this, Andy?" she whispered. "If you did, and you've been fooling me playing dumb about cooking, I'll never forgive you!"

All I did was the scullery work," he answered with a laugh. "And I did butter the rolls. But Biggy wouldn't let me touch anything else—he said I'd be sure to spoil it."

Mrs. Potts looked at Bigelow with new admiration. "My stars, who'd have thought it?" she inquired, taking in his neat business suit, his quiet, rather staid air. "Why, he's talented enough to be a—a woman!" she burst out.

At that moment, there was a crash at the far end of the room. Gloria, unaccustomed to balancing a plate upon her knee, had grown restless on the leather hassock where she was sitting, and had shifted her legs with disastrous results to the Crown Derby. "Gloria!" her mother almost shrieked, rising with one swift motion, and flying to the side of her awkward daughter.

Andrew was on the scene almost as quickly. "Did it get on your dress?" he asked. Gloria had worn her very best, a pale blue wool which made her look even larger than she was, but which he knew was her pride and joy.

"No," she sobbed, more unnerved by his kindness than by her mother's fury. "No, but I broke your p-plate!"

"I have plenty," he consoled her. "And see, it didn't even get on the rug. Well, have this mess up in a jiffy." Even as he spoke, Bigelow approached with a dustpan, and a damp cloth, and Andrew said, thinking to give her a chance to compose herself, "Now you come out to the kitchen with me, and we'll fix you up another plate."

At this, Gloria burst into louder sobs, and her mother hustled her from the room. But not before, in the sudden silence which fell over the group, Eph had said clearly, "Too bad Emma will try and make a silk purse out of the apple of her eye."

Mrs. Potts paused only long enough to hurl a retort over her shoulder. "Yes, and you can lead a horse to water, but you can't keep a fool's tongue quiet!"

Andrew was worried. He hoped fervently that nothing disastrous would happen to his party. Everything had been going so well—so very well. And now this.

Andrew tried to smooth her down. "I don't think he meant a word of it, Mrs. Potts," he protested. "I think he—"

"Of course he didn't!" she flashed back at him. "I know that, and so does everybody else. He just can't resist trying to get the spotlight with what he calls his 'wit,' and he don't care who he hurts in the process. It's bad business, putting wisecracks above friendship, and you'd think he'd know better at his age."

Andrew filled a fresh plate for Gloria, and since she was enraptured with the salad, gave her two portions. She hung back, however, not wanting to return to the living room where she was sure all the others would be watching her every move. Andrew did not press her. "Stay here if you want to," he said. "See, here's Ellery to keep you company." Ellery advanced shyly from the doorway, and Andrew said heartily, "I'll bet you could use another helping, couldn't you?"

"Yes, sir!" Ellery said with emphasis and handed over his plate. The embarrassing moment had apparently been bridged in the living room by Mrs. Woodford and her ready tongue. She was still holding forth when Andrew returned. "Of course, they're nouveau riche, and have no more manners than you'd expect under the circumstances, but really—that was going too far!"

Andrew sat down beside George. "Who's she talking about?" he whispered.

"The Estabrooks—your nearest neighbors," George replied.

Andrew pricked up his ears. Aside from the fact that they had bought some of his land for enough money to enable him to purchase this house, he knew nothing about them. "Summer people," Eph had called them.

"Where do they come from?" Mrs. Woodford heard him. "From some horrid little town in Pennsylvania, where they own the one and only industry, I understand. They're dreadful people, Mr. Paulson, but fortunately you're far enough removed from them not to have it matter too much. Did you see the house-guests they had last year?" she demanded suddenly of Miss Campbell, at her side.

"No, I didn't. What were they like?" Mrs. Woodford's eyes rolled expressively. "My dear, you've no idea! Plaid slacks and bras! There wasn't a covered midriff in the whole crowd. And the men—prancing around on the tennis court in batik shorts. Really! It would have been bad enough if they'd had decent figures, but they had rolls of fat! And they were party! Somebody told me—I think it was Maggie down at the Lodge, Jed—that they came into the bar that way!"

Jed grunted. "They came in, but they went out—fast! I won't have 'em in my place looking like that."

Has Skystreak, Like XS-1, Broken Supersonic Barrier? Experts Predict Skystreak Should Better 763 MPH

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The supersonic secret is out—Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington was "scooped" by several months on his recent announcement that an American plane has flown faster than the speed of sound.

Symington's disclosure made it official, however, that the United States seems to have won the world race to cross the supersonic barrier first.

Many aviation writers had written that the Bell rocket-propelled XS-1 sonic research plane had surpassed sound-speed, which is 763 miles an hour at sea level but grows less at a greater altitude where the air is thinner and thus more easily penetrated.

The official disclosure came only after a heated behind-the-scenes argument.

Some military leaders and Dr. Vannevar Bush, head of all military research, opposed the announcement on the grounds that it would enable potential enemies to abandon research on all types of planes except those with XS-1 characteristics. The blueprints on XS-1 have been widely published.

Other world powers must, however, suspect what has been broadly hinted in American publications—that another sonic plane, the Douglas Skystreak, has also cracked the barrier, and that a new type, the Douglas Skystreak, is expected to surpass both of its spectacular predecessors. The Skystreak, aviation experts believe, will be the first plane to fly faster than sound at sea level (763 miles per hour). The XS-1 flights reportedly were made at 50,000 feet, where sound-speed is 650 miles per hour.

RED HORIZON—Political observers see new evidence daily of the prominent place the issue of Communism will have in the coming presidential campaign.

Mr. Truman's benevolent reference to "Old Joe" Stalin as a "prisoner of the Politburo" was one indication of the fact that the Communist issue is ever in the minds of the top office-seekers.

The numerous anti-Red investigations of the House un-American Activities Committee also have served to point up the issue.

Of course, the controversy over the Mundt bill aimed at drastically curbing the activities of American Communists, added fuel to the fire.

The Dewey-Stassen exchanges on Communism which preceded the Oregon primary election may have been a preview of the hot arguments on the issue which in all probability will din in voters' ears this autumn.

LEWIS AND THE GOP—At a recent meeting of his 200-man policy committee of the United Mine Workers, John L. Lewis reportedly instructed his field lieutenants to go down the line this year for the Republican presidential candidate.

District leaders grumbled some but agreed to pass the word along to the 600,000 rank-and-file members of the powerful UMW.

However, it is an odds-on bet that the miners won't follow Lewis' political advice unless he can convince them President Truman was responsible for the UMW's recent troubles.

Some observers believe that Lewis will go to any lengths to avoid a summer coal strike.

They say he doesn't want to embarrass the GOP standard-bearer.

Legion Kids Chalk 6th Win Sunday

Wilmington Falls By 10-1 Count

The Circleville American Legion Junior baseball team remained undefeated in six starts so far this season Sunday afternoon when it trimmed the Wilmington Legion, 10-1.

Dave Kraft, who went the route on the mound for the Legion squad, gave up only three hits in the encounter played at Ashville Community Park. He eliminated 11 of the visitors via the strikeout route.

The local Legion team jumped into the lead in the first inning of the ball game, scoring two runs in the last of the first inning and piled on a single in the second to advance its lead to 3-0.

The next three innings were scoreless. Circleville broke into the scoring again in the fifth inning when its bats blasted in five tallies to make the score 8-0.

THE LONE Wilmington marker came in the seventh inning when Kraft walked the first man up, struck out the next and allowed the third a single. Legion Catcher John Valentine let a pitch go through allowing the Wilmington team to score.

Circleville scored a brace of runs in the last of the same frame to give the 10-1 final.

Next scheduled Circleville Legion encounter is set for Wednesday on Ashville Community Park diamond with Waverly at 5:30 p. m.

Following is the box score of the sixth straight Legion win Sunday:

Ashville Reds Dropped, 6-4, By Chillicothe

The Ashville Reds baseball team dropped its second straight ball game in the South Central Ohio League Sunday afternoon when the host Chillicothe team downed them by 6-4.

The Sunday loss gave Ashville a .500 percent rating for third place.

The scoring was even in the early stages of the game, with the Reds posting the first score of the game in the second inning with two tallies. Chillicothe knotted the score in the last of the same inning.

Ashville again took the offensive on the third inning with a single tally.

Chillicothe reversed the lead in the sixth inning by scoring two markers to lead 4-3. In the first of the eighth, the Reds scored a single run to knot the count again.

The Chillicothe aggregation broke the tie and scored the last runs of the game in the last of the same inning however, pushing a brace of runs across the plate to hold the final 6-4 margin.

TWO BIG SWATS were registered in the Sunday game, both from the bats of Ashville men. Jay Gregg, who two weeks ago powdered three homers in four trips at bat, poled a single homer Sunday, as did his teammate, Glenn Belcher.

INDIANS BEING PRESSED Bad News Brews Around Cleveland Flag Efforts

NEW YORK, June 28—The Cleveland Indians, American League leaders, had bad news from three different quarters today.

Of pressing moment was the fact that Cleveland was only a few percentage points ahead of the Philadelphia Athletics, who won two games yesterday while the Indians were splitting a twin bill.

From the long range viewpoint the challenges of the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox took on added stature because of unexpected aid in the pitching department.

The Yankees came up with a sleeper who could well mean the pennant for them. He is Tommy Byrne, a southpaw who has been owned by the New York club since 1943 but never pitched a complete job in the major leagues until yesterday.

BYRNE HAS a world of stuff but never had been able to control it. Other clubs have been trying to get him but New York declined. Buck Harris, Yankee manager, told Byrne yesterday that he would have to show something if he wanted to stay with the club.

Byrne promptly turned in a two-hitter against the Tigers in his do-or-die effort and blanked them, 7 to 0. He was wild, as usual, walking eight men, but managed to bear down in the pinches.

Joe Dobson of the Red Sox also turned in a two-hitter in whitewashing the St. Louis Browns, 2 to 0.

But the real bad news from the Boston department, for rival clubs, was that Dave (Boo) Ferriss was credited with his team's 6-to-3 win in the second game. Ferriss was making his first start since May 18.

Homers by Allie Clark and Joe Gordon gave Cleveland's Sam Zoladak, the $100,000 beauty acquired by the Indians from the Browns, a 4-to-1 win over Washington after the Nats had won the first game, 5 to 2.

Carl Scheib and Dick Fowler hurled the A's to two wins over the White Sox, 6 to 5 and 6 to 2.

In the National League, the Braves and the Cardinals drew away from the pack. Boston's Johnny Sain racked up his ninth

THE CARDINALS downed Brooklyn, 6 to 4, in an eight-inning game. Three double plays at St. Louis ruined the Dodgers. A hit by Grady Hatton gave Cincinnati a 4-to-3 decision over New York. The Giants protested the game because a hit by Walker Cooper was declared a single although the Giants claimed it should have been a triple under the rules. The second game was rained out.

Chicago's Cubs beat in Philadelphia, 6 to 2, behind Russ Meyer, but lost the nightcap, 7 to 4, in eight innings.

Circleville '9', Monroe Winners In Alumni Loop

Two games were played Sunday afternoon in the Pickaway County Alumni League, with Monroe swamping Scioto 9-1 and Circleville alumni trampling the Pickaway grads 13-3. The game between Walnut and Salter creek was rained out.

In the Circleville-Pickaway tilt, the CHS'ers pounded out four runs in the first inning of the game, added three in the fourth, two in the fifth and four more in the sixth inning to complete the total 13-run score.

Pickaway men were able to grab only two runs in the second inning and a single in the seventh. Don Valentine and Leon Sims assumed the pitching duties for the winners and R. Fouch was charged with the loss.

Scioto started the scoring in its game with Monroe Sunday in the first inning with one tally. Monroe came back in the second inning with a single to score a tie with the leaders, however, and took possession of the rest of the tilt by scoring four runs in each the third and fourth innings.

EDDIE BAUGHN was charged with the Scioto loss and Kenneth Reid was the winning pitcher of the game.

Following is the box score of the Circleville-Pickaway contest and the line score of Monroe's win over Scioto:

Legion Kids Chalk 6th Win Sunday

Wilmington Falls By 10-1 Count

The Circleville American Legion Junior baseball team remained undefeated in six starts so far this season Sunday afternoon when it trimmed the Wilmington Legion, 10-1.

Dave Kraft, who went the route on the mound for the Legion squad, gave up only three hits in the encounter played at Ashville Community Park. He eliminated 11 of the visitors via the strikeout route.

The local Legion team jumped into the lead in the first inning of the ball game, scoring two runs in the last of the first inning and piled on a single in the second to advance its lead to 3-0.

The next three innings were scoreless. Circleville broke into the scoring again in the fifth inning when its bats blasted in five tallies to make the score 8-0.

THE LONE Wilmington marker came in the seventh inning when Kraft walked the first man up, struck out the next and allowed the third a single. Legion Catcher John Valentine let a pitch go through allowing the Wilmington man to score.

Circleville scored a brace of runs in the last of the same frame to give the 10-1 final.

Next scheduled Circleville Legion encounter is set for Wednesday on Ashville Community Park diamond with Waverly at 5:30 p. m.

2 Kids Games Scheduled For Play At City Park

Two extra games have been added to the card at Ted Lewis Park this week in addition to the regular Circleville Night Softball League games.

The first is a championship tilt between Dens Four and Five of Cub Scout Pack 11, scheduled for 7:15 p. m. Monday. The two Cub teams are tied for top honors in the Pack.

Batteries for the game are Roger Bennington on the mound and Eddie Tomlinson behind the plate for Den 4, while Bob Wellington is the hurler for Den 5 with Carl Hawkes behind the rubber.

The second of the added attractions will be the "championship" playoff Tuesday night between the Weavers and Spur Oilers, two top teams in the

INDIANS BEING PRESSED

Bad News Brews Around Cleveland Flag Efforts

NEW YORK, June 28.—The Cleveland Indians, American League leaders, had bad news from three different quarters today.

Of pressing moment was the fact that Cleveland was only a few percentage points ahead of the Philadelphia Athletics, who won two games yesterday while the Indians were splitting a twin bill.

From the long range viewpoint the challenges of the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox took on added stature because of unexpected aid in the pitching department.

The Yankees came up with a sleeper who could well mean the pennant for them. He is Tommy Byrne, a southpaw who has been owned by the New York club since 1943 but never pitched a complete job in the major leagues until yesterday.

BYRNE HAS a world of stuff but never had been able to control it. Other clubs have been trying to get him, but New York declined. Bucky Harris, Yankee manager, told Byrne yesterday that he would have to show something if he wanted to stay with the club.

Byrne promptly turned in a two-hitter against the Tigers in his do-or-die effort and blanked them, 7 to 0. He was wild, as usual, walking eight men, but managed to bear down in the pinches.

Joe Dobson of the Red Sox also turned in a two-hitter in whitewashing the St. Louis Browns, 2 to 0.

But the real bad news from the Boston department, for rival clubs, was that Dave (Boo) Ferriss was credited with his team's 6-to-3 win in the second game. Ferriss was making his first start since May 18.

Homers by Allie Clark and Joe Gordon gave Cleveland's Sam Zeldak, the $100,000 beauty acquired by the Indians from the Browns, a 4-to-1 win over Washington after the Nats had won the first game, 5 to 2.

Carl Scheib and Dick Fowler hurled the A's to two wins over the White Sox, 6 to 5 and 6 to 2.

In the National League, the Braves and the Cardinals drew away from the pack. Boston's Johnny Sain racked up his ninth win over the Cardinals, 4 to 1. Sain's performance was a key factor in the Braves' victory.

There should be some Olympic champs among them. The United States didn't win a single Olympic title in 1936 after taking a total of seven in the international games of 1

Ag Experts Detail Plans For Homemade Home Freezer

Low Cost Project Told Here

County Showing More Interest

Low cost home frozen foods have reached common acceptance among farmers and town residents alike in Pickaway County and the handyman with hammer and nail know-how is very likely to build his own home freezer.

According to a U. S. agriculture extension booklet on file in the county agent's office, there has been an increased demand for plans on how to erect a homemade freezer.

Outstanding reasons for wanting to build a home freezer are: To save money; to meet special requirements as to location and use; to get better insulation; and to assemble the freezer where it is to be used.

Size of the freezer is an important factor to consider before beginning work, experts agree. If the freezer is to be used in conjunction with a frozen food locker plant, it is necessary to have only enough capacity to freeze a limited quantity of fresh garden products and store food for immediate use.

HOWEVER, if the unit is planned to store meat, fruits and vegetables for the family supply, a four by eight foot cabinet should be sufficient for most families, extension agents declare.

Should the unit be planned on a semi-commercial basis to market some of the farm products or if large animals are to be processed on the farm during warm months, a cooling room, as well as a large freezer, will be necessary.

Suggested materials for the freezer in the agriculture booklet are reasonably cheap, but effective, the writers declare.

Inside and exterior liners of the cabinet must be of a material that is resistant to moisture and has the structural strength to withstand shocks and hard usage. Exterior type plywood has been found satisfactory for both inner and outer layers, the outline stated.

Other materials also suggested included cement asbestos board, hard pressed fiberboard, ship lap covered with linoleum, or metal.

Straight grained fir or any odorless, tough wood is satisfactory for corner framing. Experts agree all materials must be as free as possible from odor-forming properties. It has been found that some pines produce a bad odor.

THE DOOR gasket can be a regular refrigerator door gasket which can be purchased in the required size and shape from a refrigerator dealer. A good grade of sponge rubber also may be used.

All door latches and hinges should be non-corrosive and easy to clean and the plywood fastened to the corner pieces with brass screws. When the freezer is completed, here briefly is what you should have: An inner and outer liner with suitable insulation and an electric condensing unit.

Chicago Police Seeking Gang After Gunfight

CHICAGO, June 28.—Police threw out a fresh dragnet today for a bandit gang that shot two officers and slipped out of one police cordon after robbing an alleged handbook in suburban Western Springs.

One officer wounded in Saturday's gunplay, Sgt. Charles Petersen, 43, of the Western Springs police force, was reported to be in serious condition with dum-dum bullet wounds in the abdomen.

Lt. Joseph Clegg of LaGrange, was less seriously wounded in the right arm.

The gang, believed to have numbered six men, held up the alleged handbook, engaged police in a running gunfight, and then escaped in nearby McCook woods late that night.

Bedford Park County highway police said that they had found $1,000 in bills and change in the Des Plaines river and on the shore near a quarry where the gang escaped. The money was believed to be part of the loot that included $5,000 and some 40 rings.

200 Columbus Cops, Firemen Quitting Jobs

COLUMBUS, June 28.—Resignations signed by 200 young Columbus firemen and policemen, angered at a delay in promised pay increases and uniform allowances, were to be placed on the desks of their chiefs today.

Meanwhile, City Council President Joseph R. Jones predicted the uniform allowances, held up in committee, would be approved tonight. He said the problem of increased pay would be taken up "as soon as possible."

The resignations, to be effective July 8, ask for "an increase of no less than $50 per month...retroactive to Jan. 1." One official spokesman for the city said this was "out of the question."

No definite action on salaries is expected until Mayor James A. Rhodes returns from the west coast where he went after attending the Republican convention in Philadelphia.

British Troops Unloading Ships

LONDON, June 28.—British troops began unloading strike-bound ships in the port of London today when most dock workers ignored a government appeal to end the crippling 15-day-old strike.

The strike spread to the wharves of Liverpool and Birkenhead adding to the threat to Britain's food supply.

Servicemen began unloading three vessels at the Victoria dock where only 5,977 dock workers returned to their jobs with about 19,040 remaining away.

The government had appealed to workers to return to their jobs but the London strikers had urged fellow workers in other ports to join in sympathy walk-outs.

record favoring the pay increases and $12,000 was appropriated last January for partial uniform allotments. Both grants were held up pending the outcome of a referendum on the city income tax, approved at a recent special election.

Combined Grain Losses Are Cited

Poor Adjustments Blamed By Experts

COLUMBUS, June 28.—Ohio farmers use about 20,000 combines in harvesting grains and soybeans and it would be almost impossible to harvest those crops without the machines.

S. G. Huber, specialist in agricultural engineering, Ohio State university, says incorrect adjustment of combines may cause grain losses running as high as five bushels per acre.

The first requirements in running a combine without wasting much grain is to haul the machine at the speed recommended by the manufacturer so the cylinder and other moving parts turn at the speeds for which they were designed.

Grains may be wasted at the cutterbar, the rack, or the shoe but inspection of many machines working in Ohio fields prove the greatest losses are in separation and not at the cutterbar.

COMBINES will not separate grain from straw efficiently when the separating mechanism is overloaded by cutting the grain too low or when the cylinder er and concaves are set so close the straw is pulverized. The point of loss can be checked by catching material coming over the straw rack and at the cleaning shoe.

Grain remaining in heads collected back of the straw rack is due to too much clearance at the cylinder, but Huber says a little grain left in the heads is better than to set the cylinder so close the rack and shoe cannot separate all the grain from the shattered straw.

Grain lost by the cutterbar will be found under the combine.

No method of harvest except hand work followed by gleaning will save all the grain and that system is not possible under Ohio conditions. Combines will do efficient work if they are operated according to their manufacturer's direction. Wet grain and grain filled with weeds increase the load on the combine and reduce the efficiency of its operation.

Weather Blamed For Drunk Spree

CLEVELAND, June 28.—Unseasonably warm weather was blamed today for a record 242 arrests for intoxication in Cleveland over the past weekend.

Police reported 96 persons booked Friday, 123 Saturday and 23 yesterday. The high mark of 152 intoxication arrests in one day was set June 12.

"Pretty soon they'll be crowding us down the elevator shafts," remarked one jail attendant.

Demos Seeking To Fly Mascot

COLUMBUS, June 28.—Little Eva, the 500-pound GOP baby elephant from Columbus, started a trend when she flew to the Republican carnival in Philadelphia last week.

Trans-World Airlines reported today that four persons who shall remain nameless have asked the price of waiving a donkey to the Democratic get-together starting in Philadelphia July 12.

TWA said Little Eva's ride cost $30.42, so the Democrats should make it a bit cheaper. No word yet from the Wallace-for-President camp in Cleveland.

Ag Experts Detail Plans For Homemade Home Freezer

Low Cost Project Told Here

County Showing More Interest

Low cost home frozen foods have reached common acceptance among farmers and town residents alike in Pickaway County and the handyman with hammer and nail know-how is very likely to build his own home freezer.

According to a U. S. agriculture extension booklet on file in the county agent's office, there has been an increased demand for plans on how to erect a homemade freezer.

Outstanding reasons for wanting to build a home freezer are: To save money; to meet special requirements as to location and use; to get better insulation; and to assemble the freezer where it is to be used.

Size of the freezer is an important factor to consider before beginning work, experts agree. If the freezer is to be used in conjunction with a frozen food locker plant, it is necessary to have only enough capacity to freeze a limited quantity of fresh garden products and store food for immediate use.

HOWEVER, if the unit is planned to store meat, fruits and vegetables for the family supply, a four by eight foot cabinet should be sufficient for most families, extension agents declare.

Should the unit be planned on a semi-commercial basis to market some of the farm products or if large animals are to be processed on the farm during warm months, a cooling room, as well as a large freezer, will be necessary.

Suggested materials for the freezer in the agriculture booklet are reasonably cheap, but effective, the writers declare.

Inside and exterior liners of the cabinet must be of a material that is resistant to moisture and has the structural strength to withstand shocks and hard usage. Exterior type plywood has been found satisfactory for both inner and outer layers, the outline stated.

Other materials also suggested included cement asbestos board, hard pressed fiberboard, ship lap covered with linoleum, or metal.

Straight grained fir or any odorless, tough wood is satisfactory for corner framing. Experts agree all materials must be as free as possible from odor-forming properties. It has been found that some pines produce a bad odor.

THE DOOR gasket can be a regular refrigerator door gasket which can be purchased in the required size and shape from a refrigerator dealer. A good grade of sponge rubber also may be used.

All door latches and hinges should be non-corrosive and easy to clean and the plywood fastened to the corner pieces with brass screws. When the freezer is completed, here briefly is what you should have: An inner and outer liner with suitable insulation and an electric condensing unit.

Chicago Police Seeking Gang After Gunfight

CHICAGO, June 26—Police threw out a fresh dragnet today for a bandit gang that shot two officers and slipped out of one police cordon after robbing an alleged handbook in suburban Western Springs.

One officer wounded in Saturday's gunplay, Sgt. Charles Petersen, 43, of the Western Springs police force, was reported to be in serious condition with dum-dum bullet wounds in the abdomen.

Lt. Joseph Clegg of LaGrange, was less seriously wounded in the night arm.

The gang, believed to have numbered six men, held up the alleged handbook, engaged police in a running gunfight, and then escaped in nearby McCook woods late that night.

Bedford Park County highway police said that they had found $1,000 in bills and change in the Des Plaines river and on the shore near a quarry where the gang escaped. The money was believed to be part of the loot that included $5,000 and some 40 rings.

200 Columbus Cops, Firemen Quitting Jobs

COLUMBUS, June 28—Resignations signed by 200 young Columbus firemen and policemen, angered at a delay in promised pay increases and uniform allowances, were to be placed on the desks of their chiefs today.

Meanwhile, City Council President Joseph R. Jones predicted the uniform allowances, held up in committee, would be approved tonight. He said the problem of increased pay would be taken up "as soon as possible."

The resignations, to be effective July 8, ask for "an increase of no less than $50 per month," retroactive to Jan. 1. "One official spokes man for the city said this was 'out of the question.'"

No definite action on salaries is expected until Mayor James A. Rhodes returns from the west coast where he went after attending the Republican convention in Philadelphia.

British Troops Unloading Ships

LONDON, June 28—British troops began unloading strike-bound ships in the port of London today when most dock workers ignored a government appeal to end the crippling 15-day-old strike.

The strike spread to the wharves of Liverpool and Birkenhead adding to the threat to Britain's food supply.

Servicemen began unloading three vessels at the Victoria dock where only 5,977 dock workers returned to their jobs with about 19,040 remaining away.

The government had appealed to workers to return to their jobs but the London strikers had urged fellow workers in other ports to join in sympathy walk-outs.

record favoring the pay increases and $12,000 was appropriated last January for partial uniform allotments. Both grants were held up pending the outcome of a referendum on the city income tax, approved at a recent special election.

Combined Grain Losses Are Cited

Poor Adjustments Blamed By Experts

COLUMBUS, June 28—Ohio farmers use about 20,000 combines in harvesting grains and soybeans and it would be almost impossible to harvest those crops without the machines.

S. G. Huber, specialist in agricultural engineering, Ohio State university, says incorrect adjustment of combines may cause grain losses running as high as five bushels per acre.

The first requirements in running a combine without wasting much grain is to haul the machine at the speed recommended by the manufacturer so the cylinder and other moving parts turn at the speeds for which they were designed.

Grains may be wasted at the cutterbar, the rack, or the shoe but inspection of many machines working in Ohio fields prove the greatest losses are in separation and not at the cutterbar.

COMBINES will not separate grain from straw efficiently when the separating mechanism is overloaded by cutting the grain too low or when the cylinder and concaves are set so close the straw is pulverized. The point of loss can be checked by catching material coming over the straw rack and at the cleaning shoe.

Grain remaining in heads collected back of the straw rack is due to too much clearance at the cylinder, but Huber says a little grain left in the heads is better than to set the cylinder so close the rack and shoe cannot separate all the grain from the shattered straw.

Grain lost by the cutterbar will be found under the combine.

No method of harvest except hand work followed by gleaning will save all the grain and that system is not possible under Ohio conditions. Combines will do efficient work if they are operated according to their manufacturer's direction. Wet grain and grain filled with weeds increase the load on the combine and reduce the efficiency of its operation.

Weather Blamed For Drunk Spree

CLEVELAND, June 28—Unseasonably warm weather was blamed today for a record 242 arrests for intoxication in Cleveland over the past weekend.

Police reported 96 persons booked Friday, 123 Saturday and 23 yesterday. The high mark of 152 intoxication arrests in one day was set June 12.

"Pretty soon they'll be crowding us down the elevator shafts", remarked one jail attendant.

Demos Seeking To Fly Mascot

COLUMBUS, June 28—Little Eva, the 500-pound GOP baby elephant from Columbus, started a trend when she flew to the Republican carnival in Philadelphia last week.

Trans-World Airlines reported today that four persons who shall remain nameless have asked the price of waiving a donkey to the Democratic get-together starting in Philadelphia July 12.

TWA said Little Eva's ride cost $30.42, so the Democrats should make it a bit cheaper. No word yet from the Wallace-for-President camp in Cleveland.
